

Jamie McAuliffe

Mr. Jamie McAuliffe is President and CEO of Education for Employment Foundation (EFE), a nonprofit dedicated to creating job opportunities for vulnerable youth in the Middle East and North Africa. Prior to joining EFE, Mr. McAuliffe was a Portfolio Manager at the Edna McConnell Clark Foundation (EMCF) in New York where he invested in proven youth-serving nonprofits and helped them expand their services to reach hundreds of thousands of vulnerable youth. Earlier in his career, Mr. McAuliffe worked in Brazil with SMEs to develop strategy and increase their competitiveness. He also worked with Ashoka where he launched new programs to support leading social entrepreneurs around the world. Mr. McAuliffe is a graduate of Georgetown University and received an M.A. from Johns Hopkins School of Advanced International Studies.