

Jacqueline Bass

Ms. Jacqueline Bass is a Director with Cardno's Governance and Economic Growth. She currently serves as Chief of Party of the Angola Financial Services project and specializes in extending the reach of financial programs to MSME's. For 20 years, Ms. Bass has advised bilateral, multilateral, private and non-profit institutions assisting them to conceptualize, organize and implement financial sector innovations. Ms. Bass has built a long track record of more than 60 successful consulting assignments, authored 20 publications during these past six years, and organized more than nine leading regional conferences that have reached more than 5,000 practitioners.

Deanna Salpietra

Ms. Deanna Salpietra specializes in project management, fund management and private sector development including local economic development. She is the Cardno Project Manager for the Nike Foundation/USAID-funded Value Girls Program, a program to promote the economic empowerment of adolescent girls in Kenya. She also previously worked on the DFID-funded Financial Education Fund, a challenge fund which explores the extent to which financial capability and improved access to financial services by poor people in Africa can be facilitated and enhanced through financial education initiatives; and the Remittance and Payments Partnership in Bangladesh. Ms. Salpietra also provides entrepreneurship education support to disadvantaged youth in the Washington D.C. area.

Russ Webster

Mr. Russ Webster has more than 30 years of experience in over 40 countries worldwide. He has a deep understanding of international development, having worked as project director, program evaluator, technical advisor, consulting expert, technical backstop, and technical area manager on numerous projects both small and large. His areas of expertise include democratic governance, public sector reform, post-conflict, local economic development, SME development, micro-finance, policy and regulatory reform, and anti-corruption.