

Patricia Mangoma

The Role of Youth Microenterprise in the 21st Century: Facing the Challenge of Youth Unemployment and Vulnerability

Advising a new participant in the Seed Money Scheme

Siphelani Chomuzinda runs a successful poultry business in Zimbabwe and supports other young women in her community who are setting up new businesses

Hidaya Hassan, a CAMA member
with a tailoring business in Tanzania

Maria Lyambuzi runs a pig farm in Kilombero, Tanzania

Lilian Munongowarwa ran a broiler-keeping project and is now a Community Health Advisor in Chikomba, Zimbabwe

Shumirrai Mutsvene, a previous Seed Money Scheme participant, now advises women in rural Zimbabwe in setting up new businesses

Aziza Evarist with her cattle business in Tanzania

Saumu Hamisi, a CAMA member
with her fruit selling business in Tanzania

Yvonne Kapenzi began a business buying and selling spring onions and now sells a variety of products. She is the first young woman in her Zimbabwean community to secure a loan from a commercial bank.

Issah Rashida
sells phone units
in East Mamprusi
District, Ghana

Elina, with the truck she uses for her dried fish business in Mola, Zimbabwe

Gift Namuchimba
with her shoe-selling business in Mpika, Zambia

Riziki Mohamed at her market stall in Kibaha, Tanzania

Christiana Samani with her weaving business in Tamale, Ghana

Zufa Saidi, a CAMA member at her market stall in Tanzania

Upendo Lyambilo with her goat in Kibaha, Tanzania